Text:

At the entrance:

Woodenbridge World War I Memorial Park
Dedicated to the memory of Wicklow's war dead.

A Soldier's Grave

*Then in the lull of midnight, gentle arms And when the earth was soft for flowers we made
Lifted him slowly down the slopes of earth A grave for him that he might better rest
Lest he should hear again the mad alarms So, spring shall come and leave it sweet arrayed
Of battle, dying moans and painful breath. And there the lark shall turn her dewy nest.*

Francis Ledwidge. Died at the Battle of Passchendaele, 1917

Granite from old railway bridge at Avoca.
